NAZI FORCES
SNEAKED OUT OF FLORENCEALLIES RUSH HELP TO STRICKEN POPULATION

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Germans have pulled out of Florence, releasing Italy's most beautiful city from a vice in which it had been clutched for a week as contending armies stood on opposite banks of the Arno river, which runs through it.

A German withdrawal made under cover of darkness permitted officers of the Allied military government to enter the main part of the city north of the Arno today to assist the stricken population. There were no official reports that the Eighth army had yet crossed the stream.

The Germans withdrew north of the Mugnone canal, which skirts the northern edge of the city, but some snipers were left behind.

In the modern suburbs on the eastern extremity of the city, where wide streets separate apartment houses, there was machinegun fire from German parachute troops stationed on roofs.

Neither army shelled Florence, and only its rail yards and installations in the immediate vicinity were bombed. There were machinegun duels across the Arno, but these caused little or no damage.

First reports from officers crossing the Arno indicated the situation of the population was even worse than had been believed.

Food, water and medical supplies were short, and the entire male population—except for Fascist combatants—had been confined to their homes by the Germans.

While it was too early to fully assess Florence's priceless art treasures and monuments, they apparently were virtually intact except for the bridges across the Arno. There was known to have been some looting.

Action along the Arno west of Florence, where the Eighth army is bringing up its forces to attempt a crossing, was confined largely to patrols.

On the Adriatic front, the Germans have withdrawn across the Cesano river from Monte Porzio to the coast, a distance of more than seven miles, and the Poles threw a bridgehead across the stream two miles from the sea.

Legion On Parade
At Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 12 (AP)—World War I veterans, 3,000 strong, paraded through the streets here Saturday night to climax the annual state American Legion convention. Exhibiting much the same enthusiasm but not the same agility witnessed in the Legion's first parade 26 years ago the veterans showed definite signs of fast becoming the "old guard." Dotting the parade here and there were young veterans of World War II.

Earlier Saturday a galaxy of speakers appeared before general meetings urging that the nation be prepared for any situation following the war's end, and stressing the need for fulfillment of the nation's obligations to returning soldiers.

On the unofficial side, the state Legion decided to stand pat on its ruling that a service man must be discharged before he can join the group.

War-Jittery Japan
Worried By Threat
To Philippine Area

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 12 (AP)—Blistering American air raids along the sea approaches to Japan and the Philippines have caused war-jittery Nippon to speed up her home defense plans and rush reinforcements into other threatened areas.

Chinese reports specifically mentioned the sending of reinforcements to the Philippines and Formosa as American commanders in the central and southwest Pacific disclosed heavy aerial strikes against Japanese strongholds in those war theaters.

In the latest attack on the southeastern flank of Japan's home defenses, American Army bombers unloaded 47 tons of explosives on two islands, 750 miles from Tokyo. The land-based bombers undoubtedly flew from Saipan, in the Marianas, where Yank forces have conquered three strategic islands—Saipan, Guam and Tinian. Fifteen hundred miles west of Guam lies Luzon island, most important of the Philippines.

Other American fliers blasted Halmahera, 300 miles south of the Philippines, and hit Talaud Island, 100 miles closer to Mindanao Island where the Japanese have a major base at Davao. In the Halmahera strike the Yank airmen took another bite out of Nippon's badly battered merchant marine. They sank four freighters and other shipping. Another freighter was damaged near Talaud.

Meanwhile the Berlin radio quoted Japanese newspapers as saying that Superfortress aerial strikes against Nippon proper to Philadelphia, Aug. 12 (AP)—A terrifying story of murder on the high seas was related by the crew of an American ship that docked here today, with three of its hands slain and three wounded by another crewman who later took his own life.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were told that the slayings occurred early on the morning of July 11, off the west coast of Africa.

Joseph Beagle, a crew member, said he was awakened by screams and saw another seaman, Andre Pono, bending over the bunk of Frederico Gonzalez, a shipmate. Then, he said, Gonzalez fell from his bunk, dead of stab wounds.

Beagle said he grabbed for Pono, but missed him, and Pono fled from the cabin. On the deck, Thomas R. Beltram, another seaman, joined the chase.

Suddenly, Beagle said, Pono turned and stabbed him and severely wounded Beltram and Jose Omega, who joined in the struggle. Breaking away, Pono next stabbed Felipe Martinez who died almost instantly of his wounds, Beagle said.

Pono then ran forward in the ship and inflicted fatal wounds upon August Kramer, who was asleep in a hammock, after which he stabbed himself twice in the chest and fell beside Kramer's body. He died three hours later, Beagle said.

Relief from the record heat wave was promised by the weather bureau which predicted that Sunday temperatures would not go above 90 degrees. The Sunday forecast is moderate temperatures and moderate winds. No rain is expected for the week end.

The temperature in Detroit which hit a high of 99 degrees Friday stood at 92 Saturday afternoon. Hottest temperature in the state was recorded at Owosso on Friday where the thermometer showed 100 degrees. Crops in that area were reported hard hit from the lack of rain.

GERMAN ARMY IS BEFUDDLED
BY AMERICANSNEW BLOWS ALONG
MEDITERRANEAN
COAST HINTED

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Sunday, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Allies, with official mystery cloaking the American swing around the left flank of the half-encircled German Seventh army in northwestern France, pounded forward slowly at five points in the bulge between Mortain and Caen yesterday and American armor pushed toward southern France well below the Loire to the portentous accompaniment of bomb bursts on the Mediterranean coast.

One German salient six miles wide and four miles deep was rubbed out by coordinated British-Canadian drives below Caen.

The Germans, reversing their previous withdrawal tactics, hurled all available reinforcements into the Normandy bulge which American, British and Canadian troops were battering from three sides.

Strategy Kept Secret

The vast regions of France below the broad Loire River already had been penetrated by American ground forces which stabbed more than 10 miles southward after liberating Nantes.

But lack of news concerning that front and on activity beyond Le Mans on the Paris road—a place which the Americans had passed four days previously—reached the proportions of a complete blackout. Dispatches from the front were heavily censored, and at the late night headquarters press conference there was no word of developments.

The speed, extent and objectives of the American drives so befuddled the Germans that the Allies rigidly continued the four-day clamp-down on word of progress, announcing, "the situation must remain obscure purely for security reasons."

It asked public patience "because on secrecy depends the success of the Allied plan and the lives of American, British, Canadian and other Allied soldiers."

British Control Highway

On the remainder of the active front, the British driving four miles east of Thury-Harcourt, reached Fresnoy-Le-Vieux and linked up with Canadians who pushed down from Breteville-sur-Laize. This gave the British control of the Caen-Thury highway.

The Canadians took the road junction town of Barbey and advanced a mile and a half southward to Bois Halbout.

These drives eliminated the German salient between the Laize and Orne River. Whether any sizable German forces were trapped in the Little Baker Island

Vital U. S. Air Base

7th AAF Headquarters, Central Pacific, Aug. 10 (Delayed) (AP)—Brig. Gen. Robert W. Douglas, Jr., commander of the 7th U. S. Army air force, disclosed today that Baker Island, some 2,000 miles southwest of Honolulu, has been an important American air base for almost a year.

The general said a central Pacific American task force moved bases of the 7th to the Gilbert Islands while they still were dominated by the Japanese.

Berlin broadcasts said the German situation west of the Vistula river, 100 miles south of Warsaw where the Russians have established a great bridgehead pointed toward German Silesia 75 miles beyond, "still was grave."

Moscow's bulletin did not mention any gains in that vital sector but said Soviet troops successfully repulsed German counterattacks by large infantry and tank forces.

Davao Waterfront
Bombarded Again;
Jap Planes Bagged

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Sunday, Aug. 13. (AP)—Forty-one Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged in another vicious American attack on Halmahera Island, southern guardian of the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

This fourth large-scale attack on the important island resulted in the heaviest aircraft bag yet at Halmahera, brought under comprehensive attack in late July.

Night patrols bombed the waterfront at Davao on Mindanao Island, in the Philippines during the night of August 10-11. The first raids on the Philippines since April 1942 were made in three successive night attacks on Davao airdromes, ending two days earlier.

NIPPON CALLED
PEACE MENACERoosevelt Says Prospect
Bright For Permanent
Security In Pacific

BY HOWARD FLIEGER

Bremerton, Wash., Aug. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt returned tonight from an extended tour of the Pacific to declare this nation must be permanently prepared against future Japanese aggressions for all time.

"That is a simple statement from the military, naval and air point of view," the president declared in a speech broadcast from a destroyer docked in the Puget Sound navy yard here.

"But with the end of a Japanese threat there is an excellent outlook for a permanent peace in the whole of the Pacific area."

Mr. Roosevelt said "we have no desire to ask for any possessions of the United Nations. But the United Nations who are working so well with us in the winning of the war will, I am confident, be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggressions."

The president docked here 30 days after he left Washington for his first war tour of the Pacific. During his absence—during which the Democrats nominated him for a fourth term—the chief executive and his military aides visited Pearl Harbor and Alaska military operations.

On tonight's address he praised highly the preparations for warfare in both places. He pointed out near the start of his address that, during his absence, he has been in constant daily communication with Washington and with fighting forces in the European and far eastern war theaters.

Sailors, workers and guests who jammed the docks of the Puget Sound navy yard waved as the president's ship moved in. The chief executive, wearing a felt hat and dark suit, waved back and chatted with those on shipboard as the vessel came in. He puffed easily on a cigarette and conversed with his daughter, Anna Boettiger, who went out to meet the president's ship early this afternoon.

The president revealed that near Juneau, Alaska, "I played hooky for three hours, went fishing and caught one halibut and one flounder."

For the most part, his talk was devoted to a serious discussion of the Pacific war and future military and economic developments in the vast area.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT (by wireless)—I know that all of us correspondents have tried time and again to describe to you what this weird hedgerow fighting in northwestern France has been like.

But I'm going to go over it once more, for we've been in it two months and some of us feel that this is the time when the Germans broke the German army in the west.

This type of fighting is always in small groups, so let's take as an example one company of men. Let's say they are working forward on both sides of a country lane, and this company is responsible for clearing the two fields on either side of the road as it advances.

PRISON TERMS
OF 3-5 YEARS
ARE IMPOSEDTWO ACQUITTED IN STATE CAPITAL
VOTE-BUYING

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Mason, Aug. 12 (AP)—A circuit court jury today convicted 20 of the 22 defendants in the legislative graft trials, acquitting two officials of finance companies who were co-defendants, and Circuit Judge John Simpson immediately sentenced each of them to serve three to five years in prison.

The jury acquitted Mark S. Young, Detroit representative of the National Discount corporation, of South Bend, Ind., and Samuel N. Hopkins, vice-president of the Union Investment company of Detroit.

Appeals Expected

Closing nine hot weeks of trial in the old Ingham county building, the jury of nine women and three men returned its verdict to a tense court room about five hours and 57 minutes after it had received the case from Circuit Judge John Simpson, of Jackson, this morning.

Simpson held the court in session after the jury's verdict was announced, intending to sentence any defendants found guilty at once. He said he would release any of them on $4,000 bonds pending an appeal to the state supreme court if they desired that course.

It was considered likely that appeals would be taken.

Two In Army

Those found guilty of what Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler described as a "despicable" crime were:

Finance company officials: E. Hancock, assistant vice president and Detroit branch manager of Associates Discount Corp., of South Bend, Ind.; George Omacht, general counsel of Associates Investment Corp., of South Bend; and Abraham Cooper, of Detroit, president of the Union Investment company.

State senators: Charles C. Dierks and Leo J. Wilkowski, Democrats, of Detroit, and Jerry T. Logie, Republican, of Bay City. State representatives: William G. Buckley, Earl C. Gallagher, Joseph J. Kowalski, Martin A. Kronk, Francis J. Nowak, Adam W. Sumeracki, and Edward J. Walsh, Democrats, of Detroit, and Walter N. Stockfish, of Hamtramck, are privates in the army of the United States.

Former state senators: D. Stephen Berrie, Democrat, of Norway, William A. Bradley, and Ernest H. Nagel, Democrats, of Detroit, and Henry F. Shea, Democrat, of Calumet and Lansing.

Former state representatives: Stanley J. Dombrowski, Detroit Democrat, now serving a prison term for perjury before the grand jury and Joseph L. Kaminski, Democrat, of Detroit.

Court Called Unbalanced
Walter M. Nelson, attorney for Cooper and Hopkins, said the verdict would be appealed, but regardless of the verdict, "the judge's charge to the jury was unbalanced and erroneous, possibly because the prosecutor asked the court to make a detailed statement of facts without requesting similarly for the defense."

He said "it is legally erroneous

LUNA PARK HAS
5-ALARM BLAZECrowded Coney Island
Amusement Center
Scene Of Ruin

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—A spectacular blaze which burst out suddenly this afternoon, while thousands of New Yorkers seeking relief from hot weather thronged the area, destroyed half of Luna Park, Coney Island's famed amusement center.

Despite the crowds in the park and nearby, police said no one was seriously injured.

Starting in a washroom of the "Dragon's Gorge" scenic railway, the blaze spread swiftly through the park's flimsy structures, and leveled 15 buildings and concessions, including the "mile sky-chaser" roller coaster, the opera house and a shooting gallery.

Sparks from the blaze also ignited fires in a parking lot adjoining the park, where 14 automobiles were damaged; in two parking lots of the B. M. T. transit lines where a number of discarded trolley cars were burned, and in a one-story frame building across the street.

Police reported that approximately 35 persons, most firemen and park employees, suffered minor burns or were overcome by heat and smoke. Many were treated at a first aid station set up at the Park's main entrance.

SKANDIA MAN INJURED
San Diego, Calif., Aug. 12 (AP)—The names of four airmen killed in the Thursday crash of a navy patrol bomber in Lower San Diego bay were released today by the Eleventh naval district.

The injured included: Frank G. Johnson, Jr., 19, aviation machinist's mate, mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Skandia, Mich.

area was not disclosed.

East of Bretteville, across the Caen-Falaise road, the Canadians advanced a little over a half-mile in the St. Sylva area against fierce opposition.

Southwest of Thury, the British captured St. Pierre La Vieille and pressed on southward within three miles north of Condé-sur-Noireau, an anchor point of German positions west of the Orne.

South of Vire the Americans recaptured Mortain, thus adding to the pressure on the Germans' Vire salient, but progress beyond that bitterly contested point was slowed by stubborn resistance.

BY NED NORDNESS

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Clouds of Allied tactical warplanes plunged into the battle to annihilate Germany's army in Normandy today while possibly 750 American heavy bombers lashed at airfields and communication targets in northern France in an attempt to block off any enemy forces coming to its relief.

There was no rest for enemy air defenses anywhere in France, for in addition to all this, 750 four-engined bombers from Italy raked the southern coast of France and the Italian Riviera for a distance of 155 miles and British heavyweights rained six-ton earthquake bombs on Brest's U-boat pens.

Then shuttle bombers, which had been to Russia, thundered back to Britain from Italian bases, plastering an air field five miles southwest of the southern French communications center of Toulouse en route.

Late in the day RAF Lancasters swooped upon the Bay of Biscay U-boat shelters at Bordeaux—last good enemy base on the Atlantic coast—and La Pallice in a continuation of the anti-submarine offensive and Halifaxes bombed a fuel dump in the Forest de Mont-Richard, 60 miles from Le Mans.

The enemy's much hammered railway yards at Metz were pounded during the morning by Fortresses and Liberators.

Heavyweights also loosed their cargoes on seven northern French air fields near Paris, Reims and Laon, and bombardiers said results were good in effect in perfect flying weather.

Wave on wave of medium and light bombers and fighters roamed the battlefield, bent on making good the prediction of Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory that any German army in retreat would face annihilation from the air.

Norwegian Coast Bombed By Allies

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—In a lightning stab at Hitler's dwindling Atlantic ports, carrier-borne planes of the British navy yesterday attacked shore installations on a 75-mile stretch of the Norwegian coast southwest of Trondheim, the admiralty disclosed today.

Submarine havens along this coast were among the targets and their destruction would increase the supply problem of Nazi U-boats which were forced to flee from bases at St. Nazaire and Lorient as the result of the swift onslaught of American forces in Brittany.

Simultaneously, the Norwegian government information service announced that the much-battered Nazi battleship Tirpitz was again attacked by Allied aircraft July 16, 70 planes also smashing the quays and barracks. The big warship, damaged seriously by British bombs April 3 but later reported repaired, was moored under a cliffside in Alten fjord and suffered only light damage.

The typewriter was invented by a Dane, Malling Hansen.

for a court to give details of the prosecution's case for one-and-one-half hours and dispose of the legislators' case in two and one-half minutes.

This contrasted with the statement of Sigler that "like every other case he has done in the trial, Judge Simpson's charge to the jury is an example of fairness."

The group of anxious defendants were prevented from hearing their fate for long minutes after the jury knocked on its locked door at 5:15 p. m. because two of their number, Defendants Earl C. Gallagher and Joseph J. Kowalski, were absent from the court room when the roll call of the accused was read.

Jurors Congratulated Judge Simpson congratulated the jury upon having reached a verdict which he said was "well within" the evidence. He made no recommendation concerning the minimum time to be served by those he sentenced.

Under Michigan law, persons sentenced in this area automatically are committed to the state prison of southern Michigan, where, after a period, penal officials assign them to the institution deemed proper for the individual.

Sigler issued a terse statement that "it is a very just verdict" and declined further comment at the moment.

Every one of the convicted group, with the exception of Dombrowski, who already is serving a prison sentence on a perjury charge, announced he would appeal. There was confusion among them, however, as to just exactly what form the appeal would take, but all of them said they intended to go right up to the supreme court.

Judge Simpson dispensed with remarks to the defendants as he sentenced them: "I sentence you and each of you to the state prison of southern Michigan for a minimum of three years," he said, the statutory formula, adding that under the law the maximum sentence they may be required to serve is five years.

All Post Bonds To the jury, he said, it was a "very intelligent verdict" both as to those acquitted and those convicted, reflecting that they had followed closely the testimony in court.

Sigler declined to discuss his plans in connection with the grand jury beyond the statement "I have a lot of unfinished business on my hands."

The judge ordered that those convicted who do not post bond for their appeals should be committed to jail as any other defendant in a criminal case, indicating that they would either have to post bond or serve at least part of their prison sentences were in litigation.

The judge said the sentence of Dombrowski would be served concurrently with his perjury sentence.

The case went to the jury at 11:43 a. m. E. W. T.

Cooper, whom the prosecution described as the ring leader of the conspiracy, told newsmen after the verdict, "this is terrible. It's a mistake. I am innocent and never had any idea of bribing anybody."

His associates in the trial, Omacht and Hancock, said they considered there was no point in issuing any statement at this time, but Senator Diggs, only negro member of the legislature, declared: "I'll appeal as high as I can go. Justice was miscarried here."

Another of the defendants, Bradley said, "a pack of lies" had been used by the prosecution to convict him, that he was guilty of no wrong-doing and would appeal.

All of the convicted defendants posted appeal bonds of $4,000 each, excepting Dombrowski, who is serving a prison sentence and will be returned to prison probably Monday.

Racing At Detroit Extended 33 Days

Detroit, Aug. 12 (AP)—Seven Hearts, J. Graham Brown's four-year-old chestnut colt, earned a nose decision over Col. Teddy, a 12 to 1 shot, today in the $15,000 Frontier Handicap, richest purse of the regular 72-day Detroit fairgrounds race meeting, which ended today. A 33-day charity meeting for war relief opens Monday.

Seven Hearts, well handled by Jockey Harry Hart, covered the mile and one-eighth of the Frontier in 1:50 flat and paid $8 straight. Red Dock, a 20 to 1 shot, was third, eight lengths back, and the 8 to 5 favorite Nelson Dunstan was fourth.

The victory, fourth in seven starts this year for Seven Hearts, increased the colt's earnings by $9,750 to a season total of $28,950.

Jockey Johnny Adams, top winner of the meeting, earned a track bonus of $200 by booting in four winners, including Night Crawler, winner of the $5,000 Border City Handicap, secondary feature. Night Crawler outlasted the favored Amber Light to win the six-furlong Border City in 1:11 1/5 and pay $8 straight. Other winners booted home by Adams, with the mutual prices, were Redrock Canyon $4, Hogan $4.10, and Unconditional $8.10.

A crowd of 13,236 bet $597,330 on today's eight races, boosting total attendance for the meeting to $67,395 and the total mutual handle to $35,373,291, of which the city and state divide $1,546,397.46 in taxes equally.

Roosevelt's Scotty Gets Big Hand From Bremerton Audience

Bremerton, Wash., Aug. 12 (AP)—Fala, the president's pet Scotty, got a big hand from the sailors and workers at the Puget Sound navy yard here late today.

As the president finished a radio address on his just-completed tour of the Pacific the five-year-old pet came forward on the destroyer from where the president spoke and jumped into the chief executive's arms.

The audience cheered and applauded, and Mr. Roosevelt handed the little dog over to his daughter, Mrs. Anna Boettiger.

CHOICE STOCKS EDGE FORWARD

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Selected stocks continued to edge forward in today's brief market after a week devoted to general recovery.

Sugars came to the fore today in reflection of the belief that next week's Cuban conference might mean a higher price for the 1945 crop.

Picks for the year or longer were touched by Guantánamo Sugar and Braniff Airways after a steady opening. In front by fractions at the close were Cuban-American Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, American Hide & Leather, U. S. Steel, N. Y. Central, Santa Fe, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse and Pullman.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1/4 of a point at 54.9 and on the week showed an advance of 7 net. Dealings were relatively quiet throughout, transfers of 374,470 shares being one of the smaller of the past two months. They compared with 463,130 last Saturday.

Railway bonds improved. At Chicago wheat was off 3/8 to 1.8 of a cent a bushel. Cotton was unchanged to down 15 cents a bale.

In the curb Evenstar added 2 1/2 points to its jump of Friday. Plus minus were attached to Cuban Atlantic Sugar, Electric Bond & Share and Raytheon. The aggregate here was 104 1/2, versus 86.645 in the preceding short stretch.

BONDS SHIFT

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Small-scale shifting from one side to the other left the bond market only slightly changed in either direction after a quiet session today.

A few rails showed small advances and some of the less active specialties moved in a wider range but there were numerous issues unchanged or a little lower at the close.

The summer heat in New York, plus the height of the vacation season, combined to its jump of Friday. Plus minus were attached to Cuban Atlantic Sugar, Electric Bond & Share and Raytheon. The aggregate here was 104 1/2, versus 86.645 in the preceding short stretch.

On the losing end were loans of the Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Consumers Power, Erie and Northern Pacific. U. S. government bonds were unchanged. Brazil 3-4s and Canada 3s were among foreign issues making limited progress.

YANKEES DROP THREE IN FOUR

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns made it three out of four from the New York Yankees today and their eleventh out of their last twelve, by defeating the New Yorkers 8-3 before 13,465 paid admission.

George McQuinn paced the league-leaders with two homers and a single to drive in five runs. Each of his round trippers, one in the first frame and the other in the ninth, came with one man on base.

Jack Kramer went the distance for the Browns, scattering eight hits, for his twelfth victory against ten defeats.

The Browns got two quick runs off Walt Dubiel, Yankees' rookie righthander, in the first inning on McQuinn's two-run homer, but the world champions tied the score with single tallies in the second and third.

The defeat was Dubiel's tenth of the year and put the Yankees nine and a half games off the pace.

HIS SHIP WAS SUNK

St. Ignace—Bernard Vallier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vallier of Engadine, who has been with the U. S. Marchant Marine for the past eighteen months, has just returned from a six-month trip overseas. He was in England at the time of the invasion. From there he went to France where his ship was lost by enemy action off the coast of Normandy. The crew was picked up by another steamer and returned to England where they had to wait about three weeks for a homeward bound ship.

He was granted a thirty-day leave, which he spent mostly at his home in Engadine.

Another son, Larry, was home at the same time on a seventeen-day furlough from Ft. Benning, Ga., where he has been in training as a paratrooper. He had just received his boots and wings and was very proud of them.

Larry left Thursday to return to his base for another week of training before he is sent into active duty.

The eldest son, Edmund, Jr., of the U. S. S. San Diego, has been in the South Pacific for the past year and a half.

C.C. Elects Officers

Iron Mountain.—Walter Dougoveto, formerly chairman of the forum committee, was elected president of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford chamber of commerce at the annual reorganization meeting of the directors. He succeeds R. H. Anderson.

R. J. Wells, manager of the Kimberly-Clark plant in Niagara, was elected vice-president, succeeding Steve Krause, and Don Smith was named secretary-treasurer.

New directors seated were Dr. W. W. Huron, Roy Laing, Tom Mitchell, Earl Bracegirdle and Mario Fontana, succeeding L. D. Tucker, Tony Nissen, Ray Frickleton, W. C. Carpenter and Krause.

KILLED IN ITALY

Iron Mountain.—Sgt. John Chiapusio, 23, former star guard on the Iron Mountain high school football team who had been reported missing in action in Italy since July 1, was killed on that day, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chiapusio, 810 Quinnessee street, were informed in a telegram received this morning from the War Department.

Sgt. Chiapusio, the 60th man from the county to die in service since Pearl Harbor, is the older of two brothers. He was born Sept. 21, 1920, in Italy, and was brought to this country by his parents when he was 10 months old.

Promoted To Colonel

Menominee.—Ame Vennema of Menominee, son of Mrs. Katherine Vennema, 323 Michigan avenue, has been promoted to colonel in the army of the United States. He is in service in Italy.

Colonel Vennema, a member of the Army Reserve since ROTC days at the University of Michigan, entered active service in December, 1940.

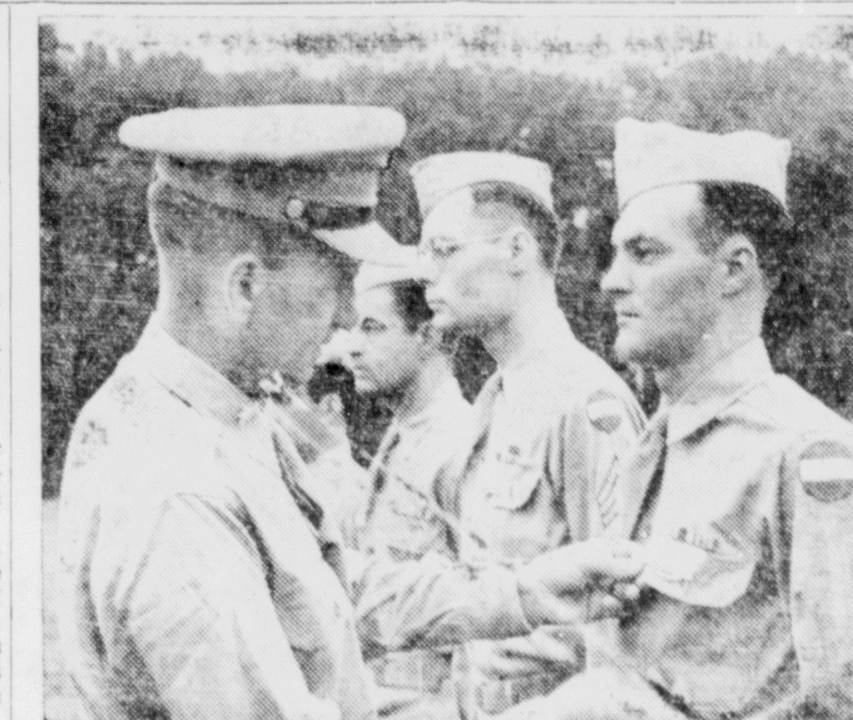

Mrs. Vennema and their three children, Margaret, Peter and Linda, are living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Silvernale, 408 Michigan avenue. Mrs. Vennema is the former Catherine Silvernale.

NAMED MINE CAPTAIN

Negaunee.—Raymond L. Pridoux, 215 Teal Lake avenue, Negaunee, has been appointed mining captain at the Blueberry mine, property of the North Range Mining company. It was announced today by R. S. Archibald, president and general manager of the company. He succeeds the late Thomas J. Comish.

Capt. Pridoux has been associated with the North Range company since early 1934 and has been on the supervisory staff of the Blueberry nearly all that time.

The Blueberry is currently producing ore on a two-shifts-a-day basis and shaft sinking operations at the main shaft are on a three-shift schedule.

Dan Morgan, Formerly Of Nahma, Given Life For Slaying Ranchhand

"Three Sisters Trap a Slayer." The story of how a photo in front of three Oregon Mountain peaks gave the lie to an alibi put up by the owner of the death weapon and sent Dan Morgan, former resident of Nahma, to the Oregon State penitentiary for life is contained in the August issue of Front Page Detective Magazine.

It was on Nov. 21, 1938 that the battered body of a man, later identified as Dewey Burrell, World War veteran, but more recently a beet field worker, was found under a pile of sagebrush alongside Highway 97, a few miles out of Wasco in North Central Oregon. The murder weapon, a large ball-peen or machinist's hammer, bearing the initials D. M. and on its head some matted hairs was found between the body and the highway.

Capt. Wayne Guardane, famous manhunter of the Oregon State Police, and Sgt. Frank M. Grimm, went to work on the case.

Following a meager clue Capt. Guardane found a place in Montana where Burrell was known. He had been seen recently riding in an old Chevrolet with Washington license in company with two young men. Publishing a picture of Burrell in a Missoula, Mont., paper brought information from a rancher as to the names of the two men with whom he had been seen. They reportedly had been on their way to the coast to shear sheep. Picked up the two men proved they had been at a tourist camp at Grant's Pass in Oregon, the night of the murder. Camp records proved it.

Finally Capt. Guardane found a farmhand in the Missoula district who recognized the hammer. He said it belonged to Dan Morgan who had worked in that area for years. At the time Morgan was eluding or building fence around hay stacks to keep the elk away when they come down from the mountains.

Locating Morgan, they showed him the hammer, ownership of which he immediately admitted, but told officers it had been stolen along with his tool kit, two years previously. Checking the stolen goods report of the county sheriff's department, Capt. Guardane found that Morgan had reported the theft of his tool box two years before. Another likely lead blew up.

Then came another "break" in the case. In Sept. 1940 nearly two years after the murder a suspect was arrested in Missoula and he admitted stealing Morgan's tools.

Guardane boarded the first plane east and confronted the suspect with the hammer. He admitted taking the tools but said the hammer was not among them.

Guardane, then confident that Morgan was the murderer, went back to the farm near Missoula where Morgan worked and talking to the owner's wife found that Morgan had written her a letter enclosing pictures on his trip to Oregon in 1938. One of the pictures, that of "The Three Sisters" and himself proved that Morgan had lied to officers when he told them he had not taken the route through central Oregon but had gone up the coast.

Confronted with evidence that he had lied, Morgan admitted he had lied but said it was because he was afraid to tell them he had been in the vicinity of a murder.

FRANK BACH

Final rites for Frank Bach will be held at the Anderson funeral home at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Fr. Alphons O. F. M., will conduct the service. Burial will be made in Lakeview cemetery. The body is in state at the funeral home until the hour of the service.

MRS. ADELINE ROBERTS

The body of Mrs. Adeline Roberts, who died Thursday night, will be in state at the Allo funeral home beginning at 10 o'clock this morning. Services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Joseph's church, with Rev. Fr. Alphons O. F. M., officiating, and burial will be in St. Anne's cemetery.

Members of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters will meet at the funeral home this afternoon to recite the Rosary.

He still claimed the hammer was stolen and told the officers they had just the word of a thief against his which wasn't sufficient to warrant extradition to Oregon.

Capt. Guardane knew this and then started a psychological "third degree". He saw that Morgan never forgot that police knew he killed Burrell. Officers appeared week after week where he worked and his friends started talking. Then he moved to Minneapolis. There detectives shadowed him. In February 1943 he went to Richmond, Calif., and there officers were advised and California police applied the same tactics.

Again he moved, back to Oregon he went and he was arrested as he stepped off the train at Portland on April 13, 1944. For hours he was questioned about the photo of himself and the Three Sisters and was told that the hammer was too big to go into the toolbox.

Finally he "cracked." He confessed killing Burrell saying they had got into a fight over whether they would go and visit Morgan's girl in Coquille, Wash., or take another route. After killing Burrell he hid the body, visited his girl and then went back to Montana. Twenty-four hours later he pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge and the next day started his life term in the penitentiary.

The iron formerly used in a hair dryer was enough to make six hand grenades now.

Sanity May Return

A LONG step forward, toward orderly and sane reconversion of American industry in the postwar period, was taken on Friday when a coalition of Republicans and southern Jeffersonian Democrats, in the United States Senate, forced through that body a measure that will maintain state control over the giant switchback to peacetime economy.

Administration forces, backing a bill to maintain federal control of all national reconversion matters and carrying special benefits for war plant workers, were soundly beaten to the tune of 49 to 25 and the best Washington opinion is that the Senate measure will be promptly adopted by the House of Representatives.

The administration bill carried a provision that war plant workers, during the reconversion period, would receive, in addition to unemployment compensation to which they are clearly entitled, six months of vocational education, at government expense and with subsistence pay, while they are going to school.

The administration proposal, in other words, would grant to all war plant employees, who have worked throughout the war at the highest wages in history, benefits comparable to those already provided for returning service men.

Labor's record of almost continuous strikes in vital industries, while military forces of this nation were giving their lives and enduring indescribable hardships on the battle fronts, certainly does not entitle that group to benefits at all comparable to those granted our gallant service men.

Under the law any unemployed war plant labor, that develops in the postwar period, will be entitled to draw unemployment compensation and it will be the verdict of returning service men that that is about all they are entitled to receive.

There is now a glimmer of hope that reconversion in the postwar period, will be carried out sanely and with full justice to all.

Navy Did Real Job

THE men who said that naval big guns and huge warships became obsolete with the progress in aerial warfare talked too quickly, the invasion history of Allied forces has proved. We now know that the smashing fire power of naval vessels are indispensable to modern invasion forces on amphibious operations.

Without it, the invasion of Saipan and Guam and the greatest amphibious operation in all history, the landings in France, would have been impossible.

Fixed German fortifications on the Normandy peninsula, protected by huge mounds of reinforced concrete, as much as 10 feet in thickness, were almost impregnable from aerial attack, but the Allied warships turned these fortifications into death traps for the Nazis by direct frontal hits with armor piercing shells and delayed action fuses. Thousands of American and British lives were saved because the Allied Nation had the naval fire power so necessary for the success of the landings.

Air power, too, is important and absolutely necessary for modern invasion armies. Air power and naval power supplement each other. Apparently the Germans knew that, also, which probably accounts for the fact that Hitler didn't send his troops at England back in 1940, even though he possessed heavy air power. He lacked the naval power that such an amphibious project requires.

The warships of the American fleet, the most powerful in the world, continue to stand as the United States' first line of defense . . . and as a tremendous weapon in offense as well.

Pulpwood Is Vital

PULPWOOD again has climbed to a top position on the list of critical war materials because of new military requirements on the battlefields.

For instance, the army and navy will require twice as much pulp for making explosives and ammunition in the third quarter of 1944 as in the first quarter. Woodpulp is also desperately needed for making rayon for tires and for paper containers to be used for overseas shipments. In fact, it is expected that a heavy demand for pulpwood will continue for some time after the war is ended.

The situation increases the importance of the pulpwood industry in the Upper Peninsula and other forest regions. During the past year, farmers, backwoods jobbers and even city residents have found it highly profitable to cut balsam, spruce and even poplar for the paper mills at Groos, Manistique, Munising and the string of plants in the Fox River valley of Wisconsin.

Production of pulpwood has been quite favorable, largely as the result of the energetic promotion work done by the pulp and paper industry. But apparently, the tempo of operations will have to be increased, and it will be an uphill job due to the shortage of woods labor. Another obstacle that has appeared on the scene recently is the shortage of heavy-duty truck tires. With much of the pulpwood going to the mills by truck haul, it will be absolutely necessary to find tires for these vehicles somewhere during the coming months. Those truckers who are fortunate enough to already have good tires would do well to treat them tenderly, for new ones will be hard to get despite the urgency of their need.

Potato Outlook Bright

CROPS specialists of Michigan State College, after a field inspection tour of the Upper Peninsula, are predicting that this region will have a fine yield of potatoes next fall.

Progress in this phase of agriculture will be reflected when the annual Upper Peninsula Potato Show is held in Escanaba in October. The exposition is being held here, incidentally, on the renewal of the four-year contest of the Escanaba Potato Boosters association. Since the program was launched, Delta county growers have shown marked progress in the raising of more potatoes of better quality. In fact, the achievement has attracted widespread attention, and the plan is being copied elsewhere in the country.

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau reports that the number of certified seed growers has increased from 74 to 125 in the past year. This is only a part of the story of potato development in this region. Quite significant has been the fact that some Delta county growers have in recent years increased their average yields from 100 to 500 bushels per acre.

This is a coming potato country. If the Upper Peninsula growers keep up the present pace, this region will be as famous as Idaho and Maine someday.

GOVERNORS UNITED

(Detroit Free Press)

The meeting of the 26 Republican Governors at St. Louis was a healthy manifestation of a great political party revitalizing itself for a Presidential campaign.

Far removed from the synthetic suscitation of the quadrennial convention, these party chiefs got down to business under the leadership of Gov. Dewey. Without scrutinizing past records too closely, we think that this meeting is unique in American politics.

Out of it there should emerge a party solidarity and a coherency of program. The Governors are taking over as they did at Mackinac. It's a grassroots movement and not one engineered out of the cloakrooms of Republican Senators.

Naturally having met to discuss practical policies, which in its ultimate analysis means delivering the votes, the 26 Governors had to present some window dressing on the "Fate of the Union," as the avowed purpose of their gathering.

And as the party on the outside looking in they "viewed with alarm" in keeping with our best political tradition. But it is obvious from their early reports that Mr. Dewey is not as yet ready to let loose his big guns on the Administration. It is logical that he should not waste ammunition under the sweltering sun of August. Therefore, their findings and their proposals still remain within the twilight zone of nebulosity.

Mr. Dewey looms as a shrewd operator. He is designing his structure and getting agreement among the contractors before he starts building his house.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION

(Grand Rapids Press)

The city commission of Port Huron made a wise move several days ago when it passed a resolution asking that all bars in the city close for 24 hours and that all other liquor licensees suspend the sale of alcoholic beverages for the same period when news is received of an armistice with Germany. The liquor control commission has now ordered a statewide cessation of sales on that day.

A wild orgy of drinking would hardly be a fit celebration for that long-sought-for occasion. There will be plenty of wet doings anyhow, without the aid of wide-open commercial sale.

More appropriate observance would be services of thanksgiving and of prayer for concluding the rest of the war victoriously and soon. It is entirely fitting that many churches in Grand Rapids and other parts of the country are making plans now for such services.

Presumably the war will not have ended, but merely the war against Germany. Serious days with mounting casualty lists lie ahead before Japan can be brought to her knees. The defeat of Germany, when it comes, will rather call for a thankful heart and a sober dedication to the great task which still will lie ahead.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

It is not yet clear what damage the Nazis will bring to the material treasures of Florence, but it is certain that no form of warfare can destroy the political rules that the city on the Arno, in its day of greatness, gave to the world. We might do worse than recall some of that political lore while American soldiers are moving into the city.

It was, of course, the home of Niccolo Machiavelli, perhaps the most misunderstood and unjustly reviled man of all time. It has even been held that Nazism itself owes its bloody principles of politics to Machiavelli. That is not so. The story goes, too, that from Frederick the Great and Napoleon poleon to Mussolini and Hitler, Machiavelli has been the teacher of tyrants. I do not know how much Mussolini and Hitler studied the Florentine, but the fatal mistakes of both these tyrants show that they must have been highly superficial readers.

—HE FORSAW MISTAKES—

The misfortune of Machiavelli has been that most people know only of the more cynical and amoral passages in only one of his books, The Prince. It is true that in The Prince, which was written as a handbook for the dictator, Lorenzo de Medici, he utterly divorced the principles of political power from the established moral law. The prince, for the preservation of the state, might secretly lie, steal and murder, while preserving for public view the virtues of kindness, generosity and honor, he said. But over and over The Prince makes it clear that these are not rules for the best and most permanent of states. More important still, it makes the point that a prince must succeed and that his intelligence must be greater than his villainy. In the cases of Mussolini and Hitler, judgment, calculation, foresight and strategy were all wrong. Machiavelli could and did foresee the factors which the modern tyrants have overlooked.

If they had read him, they would have learned, for example, that a state should seek friendly allies, rather than subjects. They would have learned that people will destroy those rulers who steal their goods.

—WAS MILITARY STRATEGIST—

Machiavelli was a military strategist as well as a political expert. He was the first great advocate of a mobilized citizen army, rather than mercenaries. He said, in effect, that the military power of a nation is the sum total of its mobilized resources. This should have stopped the modern tyrants from an attempt which brought against their own relatively weak nations the resources of vastly greater ones.

Hitler might learn even now, as his generals must know, that talk of the "fortress of Germany" is the bunk. Machiavelli made it clear that the only use of fortresses in war is to concentrate forces temporarily in one spot while preparing to fight elsewhere. So, the whole notion of Germany as a fortress is silly, since, after the walls fall, there is nowhere else for the war to go.

Above all, Machiavelli stressed that government by princes is defective and temporary. He pointed out that republic government and economic freedom are interdependent and, together, form the best basis for enduring states. The people are, he said, the best princes. In the long run, they are wiser than their rulers and just as grateful and generous. Republics keep faith better than dictatorships, perhaps because their actions are slower and more deliberate. The prince will change with passing conditions, but the multitudinous citizens of a republic will always find leaders to suit new and changing needs.

All these more permanent principles written by Machiavelli 400 years ago are proving themselves these days. And so, as the AMB sets up in the offices where Niccolo Machiavelli once pushed a government pen, let us not be too hard on his memory. Incidentally, it was Old Nick Machiavelli's name from which we derived that genial name for the devil. It isn't fair!

Army folk say, "He is attending a court-martial." Will you please give me the complete score?—R. H.
Answer: A military court is a court-martial. The plural form is: courts-martial. "A courts-martial" is incorrect.

Laguna Beach: Why do you hold out for the correctness of "kar-uh-BEE-un" when natives in the Caribbean area pronounce it "ka-RIB-ee-un"?—E. C. F.
Answer: Well, you see, amigo, dey poot de accent upon de wrong syll-LAB-le. Boston: Please, we've searched in vain for the correct pronunciation of that new volcano in Mexico—Paricutin. Are we right in pronouncing it like "Perry CUTE-in"?—O. L.

Answer: The Mexican Consulate says "Accent the second syllable." Say: pah-REE-koo-teen.
French Rail Junctions on Road to Paris. ARGENTAN, in Orne department southwest of Caen. Second and third syllables have the nasal sound. Say: ar-zhab(n)-TAH(N).

ALENCON, manufacturing center south of Argentan. The "a" is flat. Say: a-lah(n)-SAW(N).

LE MANS, important city south of Alencon. The "s" is silent. Say: lah MAH(N).

ANGERS, city northeast of Nantes. Caution. The "n" is nasal; "f" and "s" are silent. Say: ah(n)-ZHAY.

CHOLET, town southwest of Nantes on river Maine (meh-n). The "t" is silent. Say: shaw-LEH.

POITERS, city southeast of Cholet. In the first syllable "oi" has a sound like the "wa" of "wag." The second syllable is like "yay" preceded by "t." Say: pwa-TYAY.

IT ISN'T OVER—Much as we would like to think so, the war is not over. There is every reason to believe that many of the boys on the fighting fronts are just a little bit weary of the head-in-the-clouds talk here at home—talk that does no good and may delay the war that much longer.

It would be much better for YOUR MORALE—If your wartime morale is slipping and you need a little vacation away from the stress and strain of it all—don't go to Mackinac Island this season. For the war has been brought close to "Pleasure Isle" and your stay there may be less than unadulterated fritturing.

This is not to say, of course, that vacations are unnecessary. But too many hours on the golf course, too many evenings around a bridge table, or too many cocktails before a too large steak are hardly compatible with the wartime spirit of America. Pleasure-seekers at Mackinac Island this summer are being grimly reminded that war has no respect for cash or class.

This grim reminder is the presence at the Grand Hotel and on the island of battle casualties—convalescent patients from Percy Jones government hospital at Battle Creek. They are there as personal guests of Stewart Woodfill, owner and president of the summer hotel "with the longest porch in the world."

INTEREST CENTER—It is to the credit of Mr. Woodfill that he has seen fit to make this famous porch a place where men without an arm, or a leg, or with a face still marked with the knife of the plastic surgeon, can sit and enjoy the cool quiet of a northern summer climate.

It is to the credit of the summer vacationists that they make the war casualties the center of their attention—and that pretty girls surround them with adulation more healing than medicine. Hotel guests and island folk in general are kind to the convalescents in a way that helps them immeasurably in their fight to readjust themselves to life—after death had been so close.

And those vacationists who have been to Mackinac Island from Escanaba or elsewhere are returning to their homes and their jobs with a new realization of the importance of ending this war quickly. For they have seen first hand the toll war takes among our youth.

THE REMINDER—These returning vacationists tell of seeing three youths in church, one with his arm off at the shoulder, one with a back injury, another without a leg.

"It made my heart stop to see them," said an Escanaba woman. "They were slim and brown and healthy looking—yet there was the empty sleeve and the crutches. Somehow I felt that if only it would be possible for some of these boys to come to our city it would have a good effect on every one of us."

Perhaps it would, for the price we are paying in this war has not been brought home to us. We read of the war casualties; that this man and that man has been wounded in action. Now they are in hospitals. Soon they will be coming home—then the reminder will be brought home to us inescapably.

For the present we must read between the lines. We must make ourselves aware that when a Flat Rock boy, or a boy from Wells, or Escanaba, or Rapid River, or Gladstone is reported wounded in action he represents our reminder to keep pitching until the game is won. For the days, the very hours the war goes on, the toll increases.

SO FAR AWAY—The world battlefronts are so far distant sometimes we cease to think of them as places where our boys are dying. They become only impersonal names—Florence, Guam, Normandy, Burma—or even more vastly general, such as South Pacific, the European theater, East Asia.

And so we have to come back to Mackinac Island, and battle casualties on a summer hotel porch, to make us feel and know that war is counted in millions of lives—and not in billions of dollars. It takes an armless veteran, or a pair of crutches in a church pew, to hammer us with bloody and painful reality.

If you are the kind of people who need this treatment, this should impress you. On the Fourth of July weekend this year, eight casualties on their way to Mackinac Island sat on the floor of the railroad baggage car. You see there were no seats in the coaches for them because the train was jammed with civilians on their way to northern resorts.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Aid is to be provided food producers and consumers through a plan in which the government will purchase surplus foods. Sponsors expect the program to do away with profiteering and waste.

them and for us to talk a little less of victory and work a little more for war. No amount of victory talk (often designed to excuse our laxity) will end the war. It takes fighting and working to do that. And the man or woman who enjoys anticipating victory by talking about it all the time might better spend those precious hours at work.

We know what the war is, and we know the price that must be paid. We should not need a parade of casualties, of wounded convalescents, to keep us on the job.

We are living in a fool's paradise if we think of Paris, or Berlin, or Tokio as our objectives—and do not consider the cost in blood and death. It is well to follow the progress of the war, never forgetting that armies are composed of individuals, of sons, fathers, brothers and other relatives near and dear to us.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Procedure: The son of one of Eleanor Roosevelt's friends was invited by Mrs. Roosevelt to spend a week-end at the White House. He wrote to his father about this invitation, and added, "I don't know what to do at the White House. What's the first thing?"

"The first thing you do is what every White House visitor does," the father replied. "Send for 50 pieces of White House stationery, and write to all of your girl friends."

VISIT: Jennifer Jones went to Washington a few days ago, to visit Walter Reed Hospital. Miss Jones went through the large wards, talking to the wounded soldiers. She had a 3 o'clock appointment with General Pershing, who lives at the hospital. At 3 o'clock Miss Jones was only half way through the wards, and the wounded soldiers were asking to see her. Her problem was solved by a message which came from Pershing: "I would consider it a personal favor if you continued your ward visits. I'll see you the next time you come to Washington."

JOB: Gregory Ratoff still hopes for a reconciliation with Eugene Leontovich. Their marriage lasted for many years, but she still is confused by his eccentricities. When they first arrived in Hollywood he couldn't get a job for a long time. Finally, one day he told her: "There's nothing for us here. You pack the bags. We'll leave on the 4:30 train."

Ratoff then went out, met a producer, was convincing about his talents, and got the job. At half past six he returned triumphantly to his apartment and found his wife waiting with the bags packed. "So that's it," Ratoff shouted angrily. "Leaving me again, eh?"

CHATTER: Jackson, the man who was convicted of murdering Trotsky, has been waiting 4 years for his sentence, a near-record in legal history . . . One of the few Americans ever permitted to see Jackson was Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, the famed criminal lawyer, who spent his Mexican vacation visiting the penitentiary . . . The War Production Board's new handbook for employees advises them: "Don't give apples to supervisors. It won't help" . . . Col. J. M. Johnson, head of the ODT, is rooting for the Cards and Browns to win the pennants. "If both St. Louis teams win," he explains, "it'll solve the World Series Transportation problem" . . . Herbert Bayard Swope is offering a reward for the return of his gold watch chain with its 5 gold charms, including a Phi Beta Kappa Key. He lost it Monday. But Swope, who gets around, doesn't know whether he lost it at the Waldorf, Belmont Park, Sands Point or LaGuardia Field.

VICTORY: Darryl F. Zanuck, lunching with some of his producers, suddenly said to them: "What would you say if I told you that the war would be over in two months?" The producers were silent, trying to think of an answer which would please him. "Well, what would you say?" Zanuck repeated. He fixed his eyes upon a timid producer, who smiled and answered, haltingly: "Col. Zanuck, I'd say . . . that that would be very nice."

NAME: The Diamond Bros., the vaudevillians, were booked into the Adams Newark Theatre. After the first performance, a stranger approached them, offered some advice about one of their routines, and warned them to heed it carefully. "Go 'way," one of the Diamonds told him. "Why should I listen to you? I wouldn't know you from Adam."

"You shouldn't know me from Adam," the man replied. "I AM Adam—Adam Adams, owner of this theatre."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Friends of gaunt, grey Bernie Baruch are chuckling over how he always has a political anchor out to windward. They describe him as the cat with nine lives—always landing right side up politically. Now it looks as if he were warming up to Dewey.

When Franklin Roosevelt was up for nomination in Chicago back in the almost forgotten days of 1932, Baruch fought to the last ditch for the late Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland. Bernie was Ritchie's financial godfather. After the convention, he switched to FDR, plunked $77,000 into the Roosevelt campaign chest.

More recently, despite the fact that he was one month's host to Roosevelt at his South Carolina plantation, straws in the wind have indicated that elder statesman Baruch is veering toward Dewey.

One straw was the recent revelation that Baruch's long-time economic adviser, Fred Searls, Jr., had contributed $2,000 to Dewey's campaign fund. Searls had been placed in the White House by Baruch as adviser to War Mobilizer Byrnes.

Last week, further persuasive evidence reached the White House regarding Bernie Baruch's next political jump. Gathering for the opening of Darryl Zanuck's new film "Wilson," came ex-Governor James Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for President in 1920 who was defeated by Harding; also Albert Lasker, who managed Hardings campaign but who has been a close friend of Governor Cox's since.

Comparing notes on their way to the "Wilson" opening, Governor Cox remarked:

"Bernie Baruch has been trying to tell me what a great man Dewey is and what a fine President he would be. I used all the arguments on him, asking him to tell me how Dewey would be able to negotiate with Stalin and Churchill. But I couldn't convince Bernie. He had almost a fervor in his eye when he talked about Dewey."

"Yes," replied Albert Lasker, "that's exactly what Baruch has been trying to tell me."

—WPB HOLDS UP LUMBER—

With lumber one of the scarcest commodities in the whole war picture, a situation is boiling to a head inside the War Production Board wherein the lumber division has put obstacles in the path of developing 35,000 acres of choice pine near San Francisco.

The peculiar delays have caused tempers to boil inside the Government and may result in some nasty accusations on Capitol Hill. Inside fact is that the Army and the Navy both want the tract developed; the Office of Defense Transportation has indicated its okay, also the War Manpower Commission; and the U. S. Forest Service is ready to throw in some adjacent Government tracts.

Nevertheless, WPB lumber division officials, some of them previously with big lumber companies, continue to hold up approval.

The tract of timber is in Thelma County, California. It consists of 765,000,000 feet, chiefly ponderosa pine, the most critical of all lumber. For several years, it was in litigation, and previously the Diamond Match Company, the Winton Lumber Company and other big outfits tried to buy it.

Now A. B. Angle, a small businessman, is trying to cut it, and has secured the definite support of the Smaller War Plants Corporation to the tune of $2-100,000.

—ARMY MAY OKAY SPURNED—

However, Smaller War Plants cannot act without the okay of the WPB lumber division, and here Angle has got nowhere. The lumber division is supposed to approve projects okayed by the Army or Navy, and in this case Capt. W. J. Hines, U. S. Navy, San Francisco office, wrote to Philip Boyd, head of the lumber division, asking him to "give early consideration to this application." Also, Col. Fred G. Sherrill, lumber procurement officer for the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission in Washington, telephoned H. E. Holman of the lumber division, telling him he considered the project a

NEW TRAINING PROGRAM HERE

Apprentice Education Is Offered In Escanaba High School

An apprentice training program will be offered at the Escanaba high school next term in cooperation with the state board of control for vocational education. It was announced yesterday by Supt. John A. Lemmer.

The program will be available principally to seniors of the high school and enrollees will supplement classroom work with actual work for wages in Escanaba stores and industries. Clarence Pearson will be coordinator of the program, Supt. Lemmer reported. Students enrolled in the program will receive credits for their work under the program.

A portion of the expenses involved in offering the apprentice training program in the Escanaba high school will be borne by the state board of control for vocational education.

A similar program was offered in the Escanaba high school several years ago but that program was not as broad as the one now being planned and was not offered in cooperation with the state board of control for vocational education.

The vocational education program has been operating for several years in other communities, some of them in the upper peninsula, and has proved very successful.

Drug Price Survey Is Made In County

A drug price survey made by the OPA during July covering ten regular stores, and 8 drug sundry stores in Delta county shows that prices in Delta county are higher than in other communities.

Each store was checked for 52 separate items and only a total of 13 items were found out of line in price. In cases where prices were not right the store was notified and full compliance with regulations was assured.

Old Orchard Farm

Flat Rock Area Needs More Rainfall

Whether pessimists or optimists it is the unanimous opinion of all farmers in this section that a good, soaking rain is desperately needed. While some localities have been favored in the past week by scattered showers, the Flat Rock area is bone dry and potatoes and corn crops are suffering for lack of moisture.

At Old Orchard farm, the Daily Press experimental farm, both corn and potato fields are literally burning up, as hot sun rays and hotter daily winds sweep over that section. Just a little rain, along with this hot weather spell, would provide ideal conditions for growing corn, but lack of moisture leaves the stalks, with ears just forming the grain, drooping and gasping for life.

But the dry spell, in spite of its effect on crops that are still growing, did permit the Old Orchard crew to finish up its oats combining job and getting the straw under cover, before it was touched by a drop of rain. In spite of early fears of the farm manager and the crew the patch of oats, over on the Tom Jones field, yielded fully up to the average of 52 bushels per acre produced on the home fields this season. The 208 bushels taken from the Jones field, added to the 728 bushels, produced at home gave Old Orchard a total of 936 bushels of grain, from a total of 18 acres. Neighboring farmers harvested heavier yields from some of their fields, but Old Orchard's average for this season compares favorably with the yield in most sections.

Using Labor Savers
Flat Rock farmers, more and more are adopting labor saving devices in new farm machinery, when they can get it. More hay was baled in the field this season in the Flat Rock area than ever before and more oats straw was also baled than ever before. Some of the new machines provide sharp savings in man power and the use of all types are decided barn room savers. When the first hay baler was brought into this section, a few seasons ago, most farmers sniffed at the idea of baling hay from the windrow. But with improved types of this machine and the acceptance of new ideas as to hay making, the plan is taking hold and more of these machines will appear in Flat Rock fields, as they are made available.

Old Orchard's manager hopes to introduce another new field machine in this section. A year ago at this time he placed an order for a corn husker and while his order has not yet been filled, he is confident that such a machine will not only solve the corn husking problem in this territory, but will result in the growing of more mature corn in Delta and other counties. Old Orchard has matured field corn for six consecutive years but in a section where mature corn is a comparatively new crop, there are no expert corn huskers and harvesting of the crop is an expensive problem. Corn husking machines are now in general use wherever mature corn is produced, but to bring one of the machines to Delta county is a bigger problem than the farm manager and his implement dealers have been able to solve.

Lambs Get Medicine
Now that the oats harvest is out of the way and the straw has been stored in the barn, new pastures are being opened for Old Orchard's live stock. Late in last week, all of the flock of ewes and lambs at the farm were given their semi-annual dosage of worm medicine, before the lambs were separated from their mothers and turned into a home field, where oats were produced this season. In addition some of the hogs in the Roberts field were brought across the road and now are in process of being thoroughly wormed, before being started on the road toward fat hog stage and eventual sale. In addition all of the pigs from the spring drove that showed signs of being afflicted with stomach worms, were given a thorough treatment, before joining their healthier brothers and sisters in demolishing a patch of oats, down in one half of the farm garden.

In spite of the hot dry spell Old Orchard's pasture, in this season's red clover field, is holding up well. But a part of this field must be torn up very shortly, to get it ready for producing Old Orchard's 1945 potato crop. By that time other pasture should be available, if rain comes soon.

These hot days are pretty hard on Ring, the farm dog, burdened with his coat of heavy hair. He spends most of these hot days either in the cool pump house or stretching out under the evergreens in front of the farm house. He hasn't told anyone about it, but he is probably glad that Tommy Pat Pellow has moved back to his summer home on the bay shore, for this is no weather for romping and playing with children. And the attention of his usual summer admirers, is now focused on a battle of four, little kittens, found the other day down in the smoke-house, back of the tool shed.

5TH WAR LOAN IS SUCCESSFUL

Quotas Set For Northern Peninsula Counties Oversubscribed

In announcing the final results of the Fifth War Loan drive for the counties of the Upper Peninsula as a group, E. L. Pearce, Marquette, regional chairman of the War Finance committee for Michigan, expressed satisfaction with the results.

The Upper Peninsula with a quota of $14,500,000 invested $16,766,805 or 115.5 per cent of its quota.

In the campaign just completed the quotas were broken down and the subscriptions of individuals and those of corporations and institutions were separated. Quotas were revised in the light of experience obtained in previous drives.

Considerable improvement was evidenced in the purchase of "E" bonds and the proportion of such bonds sold with the quotas established. The "E" bond quota for the peninsula was set at $4,900,000 and sales amounted to $4,503,612. While about half of the counties of the peninsula reached or exceeded their quota there is still considerable room for improvement in the remaining counties and Chairman Pearce and L. B. Hadley, deputy manager, are hoping that the Sixth War Loan which will come in November the people will recognize their responsibility and meet the challenge offered in the quotas submitted.

One gratifying accomplishment was the sale of issues other than "E" to individuals throughout the peninsula. The quota, set at $2,300,000 was oversubscribed by $466,303.

Corporations and institutions also came through well, buying $9,496,889 or 130 per cent of their $7,300,000 quota.

The percentage of sales in relation to quota for various counties of the Upper Peninsula follows: Alger 135.4, Baraga 121.2, Chippewa 110.3, Delta 109.3, Dickinson 117.1, Gogebic 109.1, Houghton-Keweenaw 110.2, Iron 121, Luce 103.2, Mackinac 92.2, Marquette 122.3, Menominee 112.2, Ontonagon 182, and Schoolcraft 122.

In practically all counties permanent organizations are functioning and it has been possible to benefit from past experiences in the new drives. As a result the drives show excellent coverage in the number of bonds sold in proportion to the population.

Ickes Stopped Wallace, But Now Praises Him

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—In a speech in New York, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes hailed Henry Wallace as the leader of the liberal forces in America. This has a strange irony since Ickes, as much as any single individual, was responsible for the fact that the Democratic convention refused to renominate Wallace.

The part that Ickes played just before the convention has never been told. Here are the facts.

Ickes is a friend of Thomas ("Tommy the Cork") Corcoran. Corcoran also has a close friend in Under Secretary of the Interior Abe Fortas. Together Fortas and Corcoran persuaded Ickes that, since Wallace had little chance for renomination in any event, he should put his weight behind Justice William O. Douglas.

Went to See Wallace
Convinced by the Corcoran-Fortas line and having no great love for Wallace in any event, Ickes went to see the president. He told him Wallace would cost the ticket millions of votes; that his reflection would be far more difficult if the vice president were renominated.

Not content with this, when Wallace returned to Washington from his trip to China and Siberia, Ickes got to him before he had seen the president. The Interior Secretary and Samuel I. Rosenman, special counsel and close friend to the president, went to Wallace's apartment in the Wardman Park hotel for lunch. They proceeded to try to tell Wallace that for the good of the party and the country he must step out.

"Just a minute," Wallace said, interrupting Ickes, "but I haven't seen the president yet, and I don't want to talk about that until I do see him. If he gives me the slightest inkling that it would be better if I did not run, I will step aside."

Those who defend the president in his handling of the Wallace issue point to the difficulty of his position. He had been told by spokesmen for both major wings of the party that Wallace would be a handicap. Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan had repeatedly made clear his dislike to get rid of Wallace. Then Ickes, essaying to speak for the liberals, told him the same thing.

What happened to change Ickes' mind, when he reached Chicago as a member of the Illinois delegation, is not clear. But change his mind he did, and with a bang. Apparently he had begun to realize that he would put himself in line with the bosses, and above all his old enemy Mayor Kelly, if he participated in any move that would result in ditching the vice president.

The secretary came out of his corner fighting for Wallace. He sent a hot five-page telegram to Roosevelt denouncing the stop-

Wallace move. Of course, Douglas never had a chance at any time. How Corcoran, a shrewd politician with a strong antipathy for Wallace, could ever have thought so is a mystery. But his conviction was real enough for the moment to sell his friend Ickes on the idea.

Wallace was told all about this scheming when he returned from the far east. He blames Corcoran more than he does Ickes for what happened. When Wallace was rejected, Ickes sent him a warm letter of friendship and condolence.

An interesting footnote is the fact that Corcoran's good friend and protégé, Hugo Fulton, will be close to vice presidential candidate Harry Truman during the campaign. Truman made Fulton counsel for the war investigating committee hearing his name, and Fulton resigned with the chairman this week. While he plans to open a law office in New York, he will help Truman with his speeches.

"Courageous Henry Wallace carrying the Liberal Flag," said Ickes in his speech to the American Labor Party Convention. Better late than never, I suppose.

BERRY RESIGNS OPA POSITION

Price Executive Returns
To Job In Private Industry

Lawrence L. Farrell, district director of the Office of Price Administration, announced yesterday that James W. Berry, district price executive, has resigned to return to his former occupation in private industry.

"Mr. Berry has been with the OPA since August 8, 1942, when the Price Division of the district office was first organized. He was charged with the responsibility of organizing the Price Division to its present capacity and installed the price program in the local War Price and Rationing boards of the Upper Peninsula. He has made a valuable wartime contribution in holding the line against inflation."

Berry's successor has not been chosen as yet, but Farrell said that announcement of the appointment will be made shortly.

Mayor Wickman's Seeing Eye Dog, Mickey, Has Her Dignity Bruised Against Fire Engine

Mickey, Mayor Sam Wickman's Seeing Eye dog, narrowly escaped disaster yesterday when she was struck by a fire truck of the Escanaba fire department in front of Wickman's house, 806 South 14th street, at noon.

Mickey, the mayor's constant companion, was sitting on the lawn in the rear of the Wickman residence with his master when the fire truck clanged south on Fourteenth street. Although Mickey is strictly not a car chaser, the clang and roar of the fire truck has always excited her keenest interest. As the truck sped south on Fourteenth street, Mickey ran out on the road and was side-swiped by the vehicle.

The dog's right front leg was bruised, as well as her dignity, but she was otherwise unhurt. At first it was feared that she may have sustained a broken leg, but a closer examination disclosed that the leg was only bruised.

Mayor Wickman reported that the dog is limping slightly, but probably will not be laid up.

Mickey was trained at the Seeing Institute at Morristown, New Jersey, with Mayor Wickman as a guide dog for the Escanaba mayor, who is blind.

Engineer's Action Saves Boy About 3 From Terrible Death

To the quick thinking and acting of Engineer George Powell, 412 S. 8th street, do some unknown Norway parents owe the life of their little son.

Powell was at the throttle of the locomotive hauling C. & N. W. Extra 18-82 west Tuesday and was pulling out of Norway with 80 empties when about 500 feet west of the Norway depot he noticed a child seated on one of the rails. He applied the air and then came some anxious moments for it was a question if the long train could reach a halt in time. When it finally ground to a standstill it was within 25 feet of the child.

Powell took the child who was about 3 years old back to the depot agent at Norway who was instructed to call authorities and have them locate the child's parents. The train then continued on its way.

The name of the tot saved could not be learned yesterday.

Nick Wagner of this city was the fireman on the train.

BOUNDARY CHECKED

Sault Ste. Marie—Commissioner Thomas Riggs of the United States International Boundary Commission, Washington, D. C., and Dominion Commissioner Noel J. Ogilvie of the Geodetic Service of Canada, are here checking the 1927 international boundary datum.

With them are American Engineer Nelson Smith and Canadian Engineer Princip, whose duty it is to install new monuments where the old markers interfere with development.

The international boundary line which is 5,500 miles in length, is kept in constant repair. There are over 8,200 boundary markers stretching across the nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean and from the Arctic to the Pacific. Commissioner Riggs has written a volume entitled "The Unfortified Boundary," which is the diary of Major Delafield, who had charge of the first international boundary survey through this region.

CANDLELIGHTING CEREMONY HELD

500 Boys And Girls Take Part In Encampment Program

Five hundred boys and girls took part in the seventh annual candle lighting ceremony which the Upper Peninsula Service club presented Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock at the 25th annual 4-H Encampment at Chatham.

The ceremony, dedicated to all former club members in service, included an explanation of the history of candlelighting ceremonies which were begun by the light of the star, Arcturus, during the World's Fair at Chicago.

New members, selected for their outstanding club work, and initiated during the ceremonies are Patsy Stevens, Elizabeth Marble, Billy Young, Barbara Walker, Hope Hanson, Arvo Hakala, Sigrid Nelson, Alice Laakso, Gladys Chamberlain, Carl Domitrovich, Grace Ekkola, Marjorie Krantz, Mary Margaret Kilb, Kenneth Clement, Patsy Clark, Lois Coombs, Eulene Stirling and Hilda Wiess.

Leaders initiated were Perry Bowser, Mrs. Henry Bouley and Helen Krantz.

New and old service club members were honored at breakfast Wednesday morning with special tables, programs and recognition.

Frank Groenveld of Norway was elected president for 1944-45 at the annual election. Billy Young of Germfask was named vice president; Grace Ekkola of Crystal Falls secretary and Margaret Kilb of Perronville treasurer.

The service club project which these boys and girls are now conducting is the sending of news letters to all former 4-H members who are now in the armed services.

Christmas Programs Attracted Much Attention

—BY JOHN P. NORTON

When the Christmas season of 1883 was observed in Escanaba it was the grammar class of Miss Kate Keating that gave the Christmas program in the public schools.

The program, as presented on Dec. 21, '83 follows: Christmas Greeting, Katie Dineen; recitation Grandmother's Socks, Jessie Cox; Selection "Ted and Kittie," Lizzie McFall; recitation, I'm Sorry, Mamie Sheehan; selection, Launching the Ship, Mamie Ellsworth; recitation Lost Tommy, Sara Tyrrell; selection, Going to the Dentist, Will Helps; recitation The Coming Man, May Flemming; selection A Boy's Remembrance, Mervel Valentine; recitation, The Dying Soldier, Nora McLean; selection, Banged Hair, Eimer VanValkenberg; essay, Christmas, Clara Hamacher; recitation, Just a Boy, Lyndas Valentine; selection, Sweep the Corners, Anna Lawrence; recitation, The Motherless Turkey, Hattie Vanderve; selection, Driving a Hen, Alfred Crebo; recitation, Uncle Mellick, Maggie Finnegan; selection, Seeing the Circus, Peter McGillis; recitation, The Advertisement, Answered, Willie Bouchard; recitation, Sheridan's Ride, Alice Walters; selection, An American Pet-ruchie's Failure, Dottie; recitation, Scenes in the Old Kentucky Home, Lizzie Power; selection, The Enchanted Fiddle, Mary; recitation, The Old Coat of Grey, Katie Dineen; selection, The Falling Snow, Mary Heminger; recitation Mine Shildrem, Joe Chevier; selection, A Christmas Mistake, Mamie Sheehan; recitation, The Miller of Dee, Florence Pool; selection, Only a Boy, Mary Torrey; recitation, The Little Hero, Anna Lawrence and recitation, The Raven, M. E. Ellsworth.

The files of the Iron Port reveal that Christmas trees first came into general use as a part of the observance of that happy holiday, in the schools and churches of the community in 1883. In the previous year the Iron Port made special mention of the fact that Judge Glaser provided a Christmas tree for the observance of the holiday in his home, "bringing across the season a custom of his Fatherland."

In 1883 the custom was generally adopted here and the Iron Port said: Christmas trees have been the rage this year, public and private. Several of the teachers had trees in their rooms for the scholars at the close of the public school. On Monday night the Methodist church was crowded and a tree loaded for the Sunday school and the families of the congregation. It is said that over 300 presents were distributed. There was not help enough to unload the trees and the process was too slow and long. After all other presents had been removed the tree stood before us, an orange tree loaded with fruit. The classes came up severally and picked the ripe oranges from the tree in northern Michigan. On Tuesday evening the Swedish Methodists had their tree. The house was profusely decorated with evergreens and the scholars of the Sabbath school spoke pieces and sang songs some in English and some in their native tongue. Three times during the evening apples were carried around in baskets to the congregation, vestibule, standers and all."

It was in January 1884 the Iron Port announced the completion of the Delta county court house, still standing today, an edifice to the community in which it is established and living evidence of the inefficient county government that functions from within its walls. But the building that now stands as a sorry seat of government for one of the largest and most important counties in the peninsula, was once called the finest county building in this section of the state. In its issue of Jan. 12, 1884 the Port said: "The court house furniture has arrived and the next term of court will be held in the finest court room in the upper peninsula."

It was also in January, 1884 that the Sisters of St. Francis, now owners of St. Francis hospital one of the finest institutions of its kind in the peninsula, first came to Escanaba to assume the management of the Delta county hospital, completed in the winter of 1883-84, on the site of the present hospital building. Sisters of St. Francis operated the hospital for many years, under a contract with the Delta county board of supervisors and a number of years ago purchased the property from the county and erected the present modern hospital structure.

In the issue of Jan. 26, 1884, The Port said: "The hospital will be occupied on or about Feb. 1. The arrangement mentioned a week or so hence as to the management of the hospital has been completed and the Sisters of St. Francis will take charge of the house and its inmates, under the county superintendents of the poor. The county heats the building and furnishes medical attendance and medicines—the Sisters furnish the food and attendance, keep the house and nurse the patients, at a rate agreed upon. The admission of pay patients is provided for, the county sharing with the sisters the profits, if any, arising. The arrangement seems to us a good one."

RABBITS USE "RADAR"

When frightened, rabbits stamp several times on the ground with their hind feet, making a sound which can be heard a long way off. This is a danger signal to fellow rabbits, who scamper off to safety.

Three U. S. Prisoners Executed By Japanese

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Japanese have executed three American prisoners of war on a charge that they killed a police officer after escaping from a prison camp in Manchuria.

The Navy, disclosing details of the deaths today, said the Japanese Foreign office had relayed the information through the American Red Cross.

The sentence of death, imposed by a military court upon the three Americans, was carried out July 31, 1943.

Those executed, the Navy said, were:

Marine Sergt. Joe B. Chastain, 21, son of Sterling E. Chastain, Waco, Texas.

Marine Corporal Victor Pallotti, 23, son of Mrs. Julia Pallotti, 23 Mathewson street, Cranston, R. I. Seaman Frank Meringolo, 570 East Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Japanese gave this version of the case:

Held captive in a Manchurian prison camp, the trio escaped on June 21, 1943, and headed for the Russian border.

For eleven days they sought to get out of Japanese territory, but finally lack of sufficient food made them desperate.

They halted a police inspector and asked for something to eat, asserting that they were German flyers whose plane had crashed.

The inspector and two Mongol companions insisted upon seeing the crashed plane.

"Enroute, according to the Japanese version," the Navy said, "one of the prisoners killed the inspector with a kitchen knife and another seriously wounded one of the Mongols."

"The other Mongol fled and later succeeded in arresting the prisoners with the aid of local inhabitants."

"The three prisoners were tried before a military court and were condemned to death."

OVER FIFTY YEARS CONTINUOUS SERVICE

Who says it can't happen here?

Why you'll get hurt if gas rationing fails!

WE WHO HAVE every reason for wanting to sell you all the gasoline you can use tell you that there is a shortage... an acute shortage right here in the Central States. We also tell you that you have every reason to make the rationing plan work—in your own self-interest, as well as for patriotic reasons and for the good old American spirit of fair play.

You know the armed forces have first call on the available supply—will get what they need. You wouldn't have it otherwise. The demands are terrific. It takes three tons of gas to "deliver" a one-ton bomb. And simply to train a pilot requires enough gas to last the average car 18 years.

After military needs are met, there simply is not enough gasoline left to keep civilian cars running "as usual." The only way to make what's left go around is to stick to the rationing plan. Rationing is designed to see that everybody gets his needed share of the available supply.

Unless motorists do a better job of sticking to the plan than they have to date, there will surely come a time when some people won't be able to get their share. It could be you!

If any considerable number of necessary drivers—war workers, farmers, doctors, truckers—find themselves unable to buy needed gas, then more stringent regulations will have to be adopted. Then it might well be necessary to ration dealers the way it has been done in the East.

You don't want to see a lot of gasoline stations with "No gas today" signs—as our eastern friends have—do you? You don't want to join a long line of cars following a gasoline truck around so you can find the station that is going to get some gas, do you? Then play fair and square with the rationing plan.

Do this: Don't apply for more gas than you really need. Get into a ride-sharing club and stick to it. Endorse all your gas coupons now—don't give any away. Don't take extra gas or coupons from anyone.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A PsychologistBY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-224: Claud G., aged 39, is a successful business executive."I have a silly complaint but it is making my life miserable," he explained, as soon as he was seated in my office."People look on me as poised and self-sufficient. Many of my employees probably consider me the 'Big Shot.'""But actually I have a complex that makes my hand shake whenever I am to sign a document or letter with anybody looking on.""Even my stenographer throws me into this tremor when she asks me to sign a couple of letters immediately.""I have learned to divert her attention by sending her to the files for some old correspondence.
In her absence, I hurriedly attach my signature.""But if I tried to do so while she looked on, my hand would develop a fit of trembling so that I couldn't make my name legible.
Dr. Crane, what in the world is wrong with me?"DIAGNOSIS: This is simply a nuisance habit that has attached itself to a muscular action in a social situation.Men and women of important business and professional standing have brought this same problem to me, as have also high schoolers and housewives.It is no respecter of persons therefore, but like the cousin, stuttering, can attack anybody.Three years ago when Claud was under undue strain and tension, his hand slipped while he was signing an important document. He spilled ink on the paperand became very fussed or embarrassed.Some Habits Develop Quickly
His general emotional state at that moment became linked with the muscular action of writing with the right hand.He didn't know it at the time, but this nuisance habit had already become firmly developed.Many habits don't need more than one or two repetitions to "set" in your nervous system.
Thus, a child unfamiliar with a hot city radiator may curiously lay his hand thereon. The resulting pain of the burn will affect his nervous system without further repetition so that he keeps his hands off future radiators.Claud's tremor of the right hand thus became linked with social excitement and self-consciousness. One episode was enough to entrench the habit.Now for the cure: To remember the specific initial cause of your complex is a big help in freeing yourself from slavery to such nuisance habits.Tell yourself, moreover, that your brain is to be captain and no emotion or segment of your anatomy is going to usurp the dominance of your mind.Grit your teeth, therefore, and re-condition yourself to your fear-

WALK NOTICESProperty Owners Must Repair Sidewalks In 10 Day Period

Notices were mailed out yesterday from the city building to 75 Gladstone property owners informing them it will be necessary to repair sidewalks in front of their residences following completion of a sidewalk survey taken by the police department.

The notices, signed by acting City Manager H. J. Henriksen, informed property holders adjoining their property had been found hazardous to persons using them. They were notified to take immediate steps to have the walks repaired and to contact the manager's office if it would be impossible to have the work started within the next 10 days.

According to Henriksen, the survey revealed that walks on the whole in the city were in pretty fair condition. Occasional bad spots were found by police officers and in the majority of instances the damage had been caused by tree roots.

"I want to repeat once again that this is not a project for the city," Henriksen said yesterday. "It is up to the property owner to repair the walk and the only instance in which the city will do the repair work is if the individual fails to take action. In this case we will charge the property owner for the work, plus a penalty charge and place the whole cost on his taxes for this year."

Henriksen announced that a minor repair program had been completed by city employees on both 10th street and Dakota avenue during the past two days. Bad spots in the roads were filled with crushed rock and covered with asphalt.

MAKE CHANGES
IN HONOR ROLLAdditional Names Will Be Added To Men In Service List

Beginning Monday, members of the fire department will revise and bring up to date the Gladstone service honor roll, it was announced yesterday by acting City Manager H. J. Henriksen.

Since the board was dedicated as a part of the July Fourth celebration approximately 70 additional names have been turned in. These have already been printed and are ready for posting, but the work has not been started because city employees were not available for the task.

Colored thumb tacks originally ordered have been received and will be used in the new listing. Brown will be used for residents serving in the Army, blue for those in the Navy and lighter shades of each color for the Air Forces of each branch. An additional color may also be used to indicate those discharged since enlistment, those in enemy prisons, and those who have already given their lives for their country.

Additions to the list will bring the total to over 700 names. An explanation of the color arrangement will be carried at the foot of the last panel of the board.

News From Men
In The Service

Pfc. Russell L. Stecker in a letter written to his parents from Normandy informs them of a few of the difficulties encountered in holding a church service there. He writes as follows:

"Sunday I went to a communion service in Normandy. We had it in a building in ——. Six of us

"The congregation was composed of perhaps thirty men and three nurses, and the service was conducted by an army chaplain. We sang songs, being accompanied by the chaplain on his portable organ. After the service we took a few minutes to get acquainted.

"The chaplain gave me two copies of the Lutheran Companion which contained lots of interesting news. One of the nurses and I had common acquaintances at Augustana, as did another boy who was there. I found out that one of the men I work with everyday was a student at August in 1915 and 1916.

"Our squadron is going to put on a camp show soon and I think I'm going to sing in a quartet or chorus—perhaps one of my own songs."

Captain Alton Hoover has recently arrived in England according to a letter received by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hoover, 908 Montana avenue. Captain Hoover was stationed at Deridder, La., with the Air Service Command, but recently transferred to the Army Air Force.

U. P. Softball Tournament Will Be Held In Escanaba Today

26 TEAMS VIE FOR TWO TITLES

First Round Begins At Nine; Finals at 4:45 And 6:15 p. m.

The upper peninsula softball tournament will be held today in Escanaba, with five diamonds in use. Twenty-six teams will compete in two divisions, with the championship games scheduled for 4:45 p. m. in Class B and 6:15 p. m. in Class A.

The defending Class A champion is the Menominee Signal Electric, now entered this year under that name. Most of the players of the Signal Electric, however, are playing this year with the Sailor's Inn team of Menominee, one of three Menominee entries.

The first round games are scheduled for 9 o'clock and 10:30 a. m., with second round games planned for 12 o'clock and 1:30 p. m. All semi-final games will be at three o'clock with the Class B finals at 4:45 p. m. and the finals in Class A at 6:15. Both of the championship games will be played at the 23rd street diamond.

The diamonds to be used for the tournament are No. 1 and 2, across from the state fairgrounds; No. 4 at the Royce park; 23rd street diamond, and Ludington park diamond.

Plate umpires will be Cliff Beaudin, Jens Jensen, Warren Johnston, Joe Gardner, Harold Cass and Carefeuille.

The pairings follow:

Class A
Wakefield Merchants vs. Ne-gaunee East Enders, 10:30, No. 1 diamond.
Stambaugh Steel Workers vs. Ray View Recreation, Menominee, 10:30, No. 2 diamond.

Bob's Service, Norway vs. Prescott Local 328, Menominee, 9:00, No. 1 diamond.

Ischeping Inland Steel vs. Liberty Loan, Iron Mountain, 9:00, No. 2 diamond.

Gliders, Iron Mountain, vs. Cliff's Shaft, Ischeping, 9:00, No. 4 diamond.

Sailor's Inn, Menominee, vs. Phillips 66, Marquette, 9:00, 23rd street diamond.

L & L, Escanaba, vs. Kingsford Pirates, 10:30, 23rd street diamond.

Wells DX, Escanaba, vs. No. 3 Spars, Iron Mountain, 10:30, No. 4 diamond.

Class B
First Round games: Brevorts, Escanaba, vs. Gladstone Yacht Club, 9:00, Ludington park.

White Birch, Flat Rock, vs. Escanaba Elks, 10:30, Ludington park.

Second round: Gladstone Lions vs. C. & N. W. 400, Escanaba, 12:00, Ludington park.

U. S. Coast Guard, Escanaba, vs. winner of Brevorts-Yacht club game, 12:00, No. 1 diamond.

Northwestern Yawco, Gladstone, vs. winner of White Birch-Escanaba Elks game, 12:00, No. 4 diamond.

Iverson's, Hyde, vs. Nelson Creamery, Manistique, 1:30 p. m., No. 4 diamond.

The luck of the draw was bad for the two Escanaba teams, the L & L and Wells DX, in the Class A division. If both teams survive the first round, they will meet in the second round.

FINAL BATTLE SAVED BY CUBS

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs salvaged the last game of a four-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers today as Japhet (Red) Lynn blanked the Dodgers with five hits to give the Cubs a 2-0 victory. The triumph ended a five-game losing streak for the Bruins.

Rube Melton, Lynn's opponent on the mound, held the Cubs scoreless until the sixth when Phil Cavarretta's double, a passed ball and Andy Pasko's single produced Chicago's first tally.

The victory together with the New York Giants' defeat, enabled the Cubs to return to fourth place in the standings.

Outfield Confusion Loses For Indians

Philadelphia, Aug. 12 (AP)—Confusion in the Cleveland outfield gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 4 to 3 victory and an even split as the Indians in the wind-up of their four-game series here today before 4,693 fans.

With two out and Ford Garrison on first in the fifth inning, Frank Hayes hit a long fly to left. Oris Hockett and Myril Hoag let it drop between them for a double, with Garrison scoring. The Athletics went on to score two more runs in the inning.

Luman Harris spaced out nine hits in going the route for the A's, while his teammates collected 16 off the serves of Ed Killeman and Joe Heving.

Cleveland 010 011 000—3 9 1
Athletics—001 030 00x—4 10 1
Killeman, Heving and Roear; Harris and Hayes.

BARNYARD—GOLFERS—Horseshoe pitching has developed into one of the most popular sports in the Escanaba playground program this summer. Two of the top pitchers are Sonny Anderson and D. Sullivan, shown here in a match last week. Anderson, left, is still undefeated in league play. The Royce park league has four teams and five courts are busy every night.

GERMAIN KEEPS HER GOLF TITLE

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—Playing each shot with grim determination, Dorothy Germain defeated Phyllis Otto 5 and 4 today to retain her crown as Women's Western Amateur champion—an achievement unduplicated in the last 12 years.

The Philadelphia star thus became the seventh player in the tournament's 44-year history to capture the crown twice in succession and the first to do so since Mrs. Opal S. Hill impressed the sports world with her sweep in 1931 and 1932.

Miss Germain, 20-year-old Beaver college junior, was only three over par for the long Onwentsia course for the 32 holes required to win, while her Omaha, Neb., opponent, trying desperately to regain her putting confidence, was 10 over.

What had been a close, intense match in the morning round was transformed into a near rout on the first nine of the afternoon as Miss Germain uncorked her typical blitz methods and shot a one-under-par 37 for a 4-up lead at the 27-hole juncture.

During this explosive gain, she birdied three consecutive holes to climb 6-up at the 24th hole before 20-year-old Miss Otto recovered composure to take the 26th and 27th.

Miss Germain had three one-putt greens, while Miss Otto three-stroked two, on the deciding first nine in the afternoon. The Omaha veteran, current Iowa state champion and a runner-up in the 1942 Western Open, failed to adjust herself after missing a three-foot putt on the 26th to lose the hole.

It was at this point that tournament-wise Miss Germain chose to begin her blitz. She dropped a seven-foot putt for a birdie 4 win on the 21st; she reached the 425-yard 22nd in two shots for another birdie win while her foe again three-putted, and she fired her third consecutive birdie on the 23rd in what was the most sensational shot of the tournament.

Using a three-iron, her tee shot fell on the front of the green 170 yards away. The ball bounced into the cup then acted as if there wasn't enough room for it and the pin, too, so bobbed out again finally to end up a foot away.

Walloping Given Giants By Pirates

Pittsburgh, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates walloped the New York Giants 8-0 today as Max Butcher, making a successful comeback, after losing the opening game of the series, held the Giants to six scattered hits. The victory gave the Pirates the series, four to one.

Bill Voiselle, who defeated the Pirates in the opener, gave up 13 hits in the seven innings that he worked, to be charged with his 12th loss. He has won 14.

The Pirates produced three runs on as many hits plus a pair of walks in the third inning, with Babe Dahlgren driving in two runs with a single. The Bucs added four runs to two hits, plus a walk, an error and some slow fielding by the Giant infielders.

Singles by Pete Coscarart, who made three hits, Johnny Barrett and Butcher accounted for the other Pirate tally in the seventh.

The defeat dropped the Giants into the second division, a half-game behind the Chicago Cubs, who took over fourth place.

New York 000 000 000—0 6 1
Pittsburgh 003 040 10x—8 13 0

Highland Golfers Meet Gladstone

The Highland male golfers will entertain the Gladstone golf club men this afternoon in an interclub match at the Highland course. The match will begin at one o'clock, with lunch after the golf program.

The teams met earlier at Gladstone but that match was rained out before all the players had completed their rounds.

GLADSTONE TO BATTLE NAHMA

Upbays Seek To Avenge Defeat In Earlier Game

Gladstone, Mich.—Gladstone will travel to Nahma today to clash with the strong milltown team. It will be the only game in the Delta county league today for Escanaba is idle due to the softball tournament.

Adding to a rivalry that needs no fanning is the fact that the winner of today's game will be the league leader and likely county champion. The last time the two teams clashed Nahma won 9-8.

Efforts to arrange a postseason game with the winner of the Menominee league are under way and a series of two out of three games may be arranged.

Making the trip to Nahma will be Lundin, McIntyre, Schense, Richards, LaPointe, Maki, Lundmark, Arnsen, Haglund, Young and Paine.

The players will meet at the state police post at 12:30 o'clock. McIntyre is expected to be assigned mound duties for the Gladstone nine with Lundin catching. Young will also be available for mound duty. Nahma is expected to start Camps on the mound with Pourpour in reserve. Hruska will be behind the plate.

The best baseball throws to date have been registered by Beck of Escanaba with a heave of 284 and McIntyre of Gladstone with 281. In practice McIntyre has thrown over 300 and he is almost a sure bet to better the present record. The best base-running has been done by Ross in 14.8. The Escanaba lad appears about a second faster than any one else.

Sluggers Sew Up Midget Loop Title

Winning two more, the powerful Sluggers of Webster playground sewed up the 1944 midget softball league title in play last week. In actual figures, the North Enders must win one more game but this will be presented to them by the Ludington Cubs who have dropped from the league and who are scheduled to play the league champions on Monday. Oberg's, last year's champions also quit after a discouraging season in which they found the competition a little too tough. Many of the Obergers are young this year and with a year's practice should do better next season.

Best game of the week should be between the aggressive West End Juniors and the ambitious Webster Flyers Monday at the junior high. The Sluggers will also have to play the junior high team but with the pressure off they should win handily.

Schedule is as follows: Monday—Obergers vs. Tigers (credit to Tigers), West End Juniors vs. Flyers at junior high, Sluggers vs. Ludington (credit to Sluggers), Wednesday—Oberg vs. Flyers (credit to Flyers), Tigers vs. Ludington (credit to Tigers), West End Juniors vs. Sluggers at Webster.

The Tigers, after scoring two runs in the second frame, completely wiped out the deficit in the next frame by scoring three runs on some long-distance slugging. Both nines added a run in the fourth, and the Bengals skinned way ahead of the hapless Senators with a four-run spurge in the fifth. They added a pair of runs in the seventh.

The Tigers, who move on to Philadelphia tomorrow for a double-header, have won 14 out of 17 games with Washington this season.

Detroit—023 140 200—12 12 2
Washington—400 100 000—5 9 4

Pensive Defeated By Appleknocker

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—Pensive, winner of the Kentucky derby and Preakness, was defeated for the sixth consecutive time today as Appleknocker swept to victory in the $17,850 Dick Welles handicap at Washington park.

Pensive, coupled with Miss Keeneland as the Calumet farm entry broke tenth and last in the mile event, but finished fourth with a rousing burst of speed, three and three-quarter lengths behind the winner. The colt was seventh coming into the stretch and was gaining with every jump. Pensive, top-weighted with 124 pounds, was ridden by Jockey Conn McCreary for the first time since finishing second in the Belmont stakes last June 3.

Appleknocker, a handsome brown gelding, which bears his name, not only won his first important prize, but soundly trounced several leading candidates for the American derby two weeks hence.

The greatest failure of the race was Miss Keeneland. Never a factor, she finished last.

Detroit Stretches Lead In Golf Match

Searboro, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—Al Watrous of Detroit, shooting a 70 for his third consecutive sub-par round, extended his lead in the $5,000 added Maple Leaf Open golf tournament to six strokes today. The Michigan pro has a 205 aggregate for the 54 holes.

Fred Wood of Vancouver, went over par for the first time and his 72 today lifted his total to 211.

Joe Kirkwood, Sr., of Philadelphia, carded 71's on their third rounds. Kirkwood now has 217 while Diegel has 222.

It takes eight times the distance to bring a car to a full stop on glare ice as on dry concrete.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Anyone who believes that the war has killed off the amateur athletic program in the upper peninsula need only to visit any of the softball diamonds in Escanaba today to find that he is wrong. No less than 26 teams from 12 upper peninsula communities will compete here today in the annual softball tournament. Virtually all of the communities that have been represented in past years will again be represented today. Many of the familiar names who have helped to make softball history in the peninsula will be heard again over the loud speaking system.

No one will deny that the war has made great inroads into the playing talent of every softball center of interest in the peninsula. The important thing, however, is that keen competition still remains and the caliber of play remains high. Today's show,

Just how enthusiastic these softball teams are about the upper peninsula tournament is evident when one studies the tournament setup. First of all the teams pay their entry fee, $7 each. Then teams like the Inland Steel of Ishpeming and Phillips 66, of Marquette, just to mention only two, have to round up their members early in the morning and drive to Escanaba in time for a brief practice before their first round game—at nine a. m. Then to carry through the finals, the teams must play four games—with just a brief rest, from nine a. m. to 7:30 p. m.—and drive back to their homes after the tournament. They'll be on the jobs as usual Monday morning.

DETROIT WHIPS SENATORS, 12-5

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Hammering two Washington pitchers for 12 hits, the Detroit Tigers tonight walloped the Senators, 12 to 5, to win their ninth straight game and a sweep of the four-game series with the Nationals.

The Tigers have piled up their longest winning streak in five years—they won nine straight in 1939—but they haven't yet approached their 14-game victory strings of 1934 and 1940.

The Tigers nipped Alex Carrasquel and Bill Lefebvre for 12 safeties, including an inside-the-park home run by Roger Cramer, while Ruffin Gentry and Johnny Gorsica were touched for nine hits. Gentry went five innings, giving way to Gorsica in the sixth.

The Senators started the game like a whirlwind, driving four runs across the plate on four hits in the first, but they didn't even threaten to catch up with the Tigers after that.

The Tigers, after scoring two runs in the second frame, completely wiped out the deficit in the next frame by scoring three runs on some long-distance slugging. Both nines added a run in the fourth, and the Bengals skinned way ahead of the hapless Senators with a four-run spurge in the fifth. They added a pair of runs in the seventh.

Battered Champion Bounces Off Ropes And Snags Decision

Liverpool, Aug. 12 (AP)—Jackie Paterson, world flyweight champion, battered and bloody about the face, came off the ropes and gained a technical knockout over Ronnie Clayton of Blackpool in the 12th round of a scheduled 15 rounder tonight.

A crowd of 25,000 watched Glasgow's Paterson, fighting with one eye nearly closed, send Clayton down for an eight-count in the 10th round with a terrific left hook to the body. Up to then Paterson had taken a hammering.

No Bids For Yanks Yet, Says Barrow

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Ed Barrow, president of the New York Yankees, said today the club "has not been sold and will not be sold until after the season closes—if then."

"So far, we have not received an authentic bid from anybody," Barrow spoke after a week of rumors which had Lt. Col. Larry MacPhail, former president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Capt. Dan Topping of the Marines, and his wife, Sonja Henie, as members of the purchasing syndicate.

L&L's Still Lead Major League

With a week to go in the regular schedule plus a few postponed games, L&L maintained a slight lead in major softball league play last week. Both White Birch and DX won two games but neither team appears to have quite enough stuff to halt the championship rush of the league leaders.

The down trodden Elks flashed some fine ball in play last week although splitting the series and may prove to be the dark horse of Sunday's class B tournament competition.

Wells DX who have fought to hold second all season will have a final crack at L&L in the feature game of the week scheduled for Tuesday on No. 2 diamond.

In the first three meetings, L and L have won two and the third was tied when darkness stopped the game. A win by the L&L Tuesday practically wipes out any chance the DXers might have to win league title.

The schedule for the week is as follows: Monday—Wolves vs. Elks No. 1, Brevorts vs. Iverson's No. 2, White Birch vs. Coast Guards No. 4, Tuesday—Wells DX vs. L&L No. 2, Wednesday—Brevorts vs. Coast Guards No. 4, White Birch Juniors vs. Elks at Flat Rock, Thursday—Iverson's vs. L&L No. 1, Wells DX vs. Wolves No. 2.

Home Run In Eighth Nips White Sox, 5-4

Boston, Aug. 12 (AP)—Jim Tabor's eight inning home run, his ninth of the season, today gave the Boston Red Sox a 5 to 4 victory over Chicago.

The score was tied 4-4 and one was out when Tabor hit the first pitch to give the Red Sox their third win in the four-game series.

The White Sox Vince Castino provided one of the highlights with three hits and a walk in four times at bat.

The Red Sox got one in the third on Skeeter Newsome's double and Bowman's single. Pete Fox and Bob Johnson singled in the fourth and the former came in on Doerr's double. Johnson scored the third run after Tabor and Roy Partee drew walks.

In the fifth, Culbertson singled and came in on a single by Fox after Tom McBride sacrificed.

LEADING CARDS ARE SHUT OUT

St. Louis, Aug. 12 (AP)—Dick Barrett shut out the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals on four hits to give Philadelphia a 3 to 0 victory tonight.

The Phillies scored their first run in the second on one hit. Charley Letchas walked and went to third on Johnny Peacock's double and scored on Glen Stewart's fly to Danny Litwhiler. In the third Buster Adams opened with a single, moved to second on Jimmy Waddell's walk and scored on Letchas' single.

Tony Lupien opened the eighth with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Peacock's single.

The Roving Reporter

Sometimes they will prop up machine guns with strings attached, so they can fire over the hedge without getting out of their holes. They even cut out a section of the hedgerow and hide a big gun or a tank in it, covering it with brush.

Also they tunnel under the hedgerows from the back and make the opening on the forward side just large enough to stick a machine gun through.

But mostly the hedgerow pattern is this: A heavy machine gun hidden at each end of the field and infantrymen hidden all along the hedgerow with rifles and machine pistols.

Now it's up to us to dig them out of there. It's a slow and cautious business, and there is nothing very dashing about it. Our men don't go across the open fields in dramatic charges such as you see in the movies. They did at first, but they learned better.

They go in tiny groups, a squad or less, moving yards apart and sticking close to the hedgerows on either end of the field. They creep a few yards, squat, wait, then creep again.

If you could be right up there between the Germans and the Americans you wouldn't see very many men at any one time—just a few here and there, always trying to keep hidden. But you would hear an awful lot of noise.

Our men were taught in training not to fire until they saw something to fire at. But that hasn't worked in this country, because you see so little. So the alternative is to keep shooting constantly at the hedgerows. That pins the Germans in their holes while we sneak up on them.

The attacking squads sneak up the sides of the hedgerows while the rest of the platoon stay back in their own hedgerow and keep the forward hedge saturated with bullets. They shoot rifle grenades too, and a mortar squad a little farther back keeps lobbing mortar shells over onto the Germans.

The little advance groups get up to the far ends of the hedgerows at the corners of the field. They first try to knock out the machine guns at each corner. They do this with hand grenades, rifle grenades and machine guns.

Usually, when the pressure gets on, the German defenders of the hedgerow start pulling back. They'll take their heavier guns and most of the men back a couple of fields and start digging in for a new line.

They leave about two machine guns and a few riflemen scattered through the hedge, to do a lot of shooting and hold up the Americans as long as they can.

Our men now sneak along the front side of the hedgerow, throwing grenades over onto the other side and spraying the hedges with their guns. The fighting is very close—only a few yards apart—but it is seldom actual hand-to-hand stuff.

Sometimes the remaining Germans come out of their holes with their hands up. Sometimes they try to run for it and are mowed down. Sometimes they won't come out at all and a hand grenade, thrown into their hole, finishes them off.

And so we've taken another hedgerow and are ready to start on the one beyond.

This hedgerow business is a sort of little skirmish—like that clear across the front thousands and thousands of little skirmishes. No single one of them is very big. But add them all up over the days and weeks and you've got a man-sized war, with thousands on both sides being killed.

Red raspberries are more hardy than the purple or black variety.

High FOE Official Visits Local Aerie

C. A. Gruver of Bluefield, West Virginia, Grand Deputy Auditor, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is visiting in Escanaba and while here is making an audit of the books of record of Escanaba Aerie No. 1088.

Mr. Gruver and Mrs. Gruver, who accompanied him here are in the Upper Peninsula for the first time and they report finding the scenery very beautiful and the trip interesting.

Gruver is a member of Bluefield, W. V., Aerie No. 857 which he has served as secretary, worthy Vice-president and worthy president. He assisted in the organization of the West Virginia State Aerie in 1941.

He attended the national convention held at Cincinnati, Ohio, August 26 at which important changes were made in the FOE constitution which will be of benefit to all the 1225 Aeries in the United States and Provinces of Canada. The convention went on record as favoring a guaranteed wage to every working man who desires to work; this to require a man to produce a certain number of days of work in order to earn the wage.

Total membership of the F.O.E. is now in excess of 843,000 with 125,211 of its members serving in the armed forces of our country.

FORD AGENCY SOLD

The Ford Agency was sold August 8 to A. Atkinson, formerly a logging contractor from Antrim county. The agency has been owned outright by William Tidd since 1936. Prior to this time it was a joint ownership of Carmody and Tidd who took it over in 1919. Atkinson, better known as Penny, has been a resident here for the past six years and has been logging on Five-Mile Point. The garage and stockroom were also included in the sale.

CONFESS STEALING GAS

Two Grand Marais youths, one 15 and the other 18, confessed to Trooper Chenoweth Saturday morning that they had stolen gas from the Endress bulk station plant in Grand Marais. The exact amount taken could not be determined because the boys had hid in several places in the woods and had used a great deal of it. They will be tried Saturday afternoon in Justice Walter's court.

TAX PAYMENT DUE

Taxpayers are reminded by Virginia Alexander, deputy Alger county treasurer, that the tenth installment on 1932 and prior year's taxes and the eighth installment on 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes are payable on or before August 31. These installments must be paid to prevent properties from going on the annual tax sale in May at which time they may bid in by individuals or automatically bid to the state as delinquent.

On 1932 and prior year taxes the tenth installment represents the final payment. Taxpayers are asked to check their receipts to determine if all installments have been paid. On 1933, 1934 and 1935 installments balances may be paid by property owners if they wish to do so. There are only three moratorium payments left on this plan and wherever it is possible to pay the balance, the auditor general's department and the county treasurer's department encourage the payment of the balance.

When calling at the county treasurer's office or mailing payments, taxpayers are kindly asked to refer to former receipts and bring or send the most recent ones to the office which will be of great assistance in locating the descriptions which will eliminate unnecessary waiting and inconvenience. Receipts which are mailed will be returned with current receipts. It is hoped that wherever possible, property owners will not wait until the August 31 deadline.

before making payment, inasmuch as delays at that time will be inevitable.

Large Peach Crop Will Be Harvested

With a large peach crop nearing maturity in Southern Michigan and Northern Ohio, growers and shippers were advised by E. O. Pollock, Regional Director of Food Distribution, WFA, to take steps to obtain substitute containers for marketing their fruit.

"Adequate supplies of bushel and half bushel baskets, both new or used, with which to move the big 1944 peach crop in Michigan and Ohio just don't exist. Producers and shippers who have not obtained their supply of baskets up to now should start immediately to get a supply of substitute containers."

Pollock suggested that the peaches may be marketed in nailed orange boxes, crates, Northwest apple boxes, or other suitable substitute containers. Supplies of these types of containers are adequate for marketing the peaches. Orange boxes which hold 1½ or 1 3-5 bushels, and Northwest apple boxes holding about one bushel, may be obtained in reasonably adequate quantities from used container dealers in Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, according to Pollock.
